

The Maison Yoshimi Association Presents:

A Painting Holiday in the Medieval Surroundings of the Sunny South of France

A five -day painting course (watercolours, oil, pastel, drawing etc.)

Come and paint in Vézénobres, a medieval village set in spectacular surroundings. Landscape, village atmosphere, nature and much more. Discover or improve your watercolour and oil painting, or perfect your drawing skills.

The course is given by artistic director François Oberfalcer, a well - known artist and painter, art school professor and director of courses all over Europe. He has a long experience in teaching painting to beginners as well as advanced students. He caters for several types of media (watercolour, oil, acrylic, pastel etc.), and guarantees individual attention to each participant. We are convinced that his friendly and constructive approach will help to improve your technique.

Our house is situated in the centre of the village of Vézénobres, a charming little medieval village located in the Gard, a region in the south of France.

There is a restaurant and a café/bar just opposite the house and a bakery next door. So you will be able to enjoy the freshest French bread every day. You can visit the village via the local tourist office website at:
